

Attorney Ronald Lieberman named 'Ultimate Networker'

BY RICHARD YAGER

It was a special moment when attorney Ronald S. Lieberman accepted the first Kendall Networkers "Ultimate Networker of the Year" plaque on Mar. 18.

The distinction was named "The Tom Stolman Award" to honor a former dedicated networker who died in 2008 after 12 years of activity with the business referral and development organization founded by CPA Marvin P. Stein in 1992.

"Allan was usually the first person you would meet at our breakfast meetings, standing by the door to welcome newcomers," recalled Rene J. Garcia Jr., Networkers president. "He was always one of the first to volunteer to help the organization grow."

Joining Garcia was Laura Stolman of West Kendall, who told more than 30 members at the weekly Kendall Networkers breakfast, "This is a wonderful occasion because I know how important this organization has been to both my husband and me, helping our own business to expand."

Stolman specialized in telecommunications with an office located on N. Kendall Drive. An ardent sports fisherman most of his life, he died in comparatively good health at age 60, Mrs. Stolman said.

Lieberman was elected as the inaugural Stolman Award winner by fellow members for exemplifying high numbers of referrals, attendance at meetings, recruiting, and overall attitude, the criteria established by Stein and Alan Eisenberg when the award was approved by the Networkers board on Feb. 11.

Lieberman, associated with the Miami firm of Salmon & Dulberg, dispute resolution mediation and arbitration specialists, provides counsel in consumer, commercial, employment and housing law, including landlord-tenant relationships.

He served as chair of the board of directors, South Florida Council on Divorce Mediation, and was instrumental among those who gained freedom for Freddie Pitts and Wilbert Lee after 12 years imprisonment for a murder they did not commit, a story that began with a tireless investigation by Charles Whited, a former Miami Herald reporter.

A past president of Kendale Homeowners Association, Lieberman also has served as a vice chair and board member of Chamber South, and has long been active in the Miami-Pinecrest Rotary Club, serving a term as president during a 20-year membership.

Kendall Networkers, which reelected Garcia as its president for 2009, conducted its installation of officers at the Miami Elks Lodge on Mar. 20.
